

CENSUS BILL PASSED

Lodge Amendment to Reform System Is Defeated.

W. DUDLEY FOULKE PRESENT

Massachusetts Senator, Assisted by Rayner, Tries to Institute Reform Measure, and on Final Vote Loses by 32 to 15—Discussion of Local Interest Is Heard About New Site.

The Senate, by more than two to one, voted down an amendment to the census bill offered by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, applying civil service rules to the appointment of clerks for the thirtieth census.

The Senator from Massachusetts denounced the "spoils system," and he was ably seconded by Senator Rayner, who declared that it was a prerogative which should be shunned as "barbarous."

The vote by which Mr. Lodge's amendment was rejected, 32 to 15.

Those voting in favor of the amendment were: Brown, Burket, Clapp, Crane, Depew, Dillingham, Dixon, Dooliver, Du Pont, Kean, Lodge, and Richardson, Republicans; Clay, Newlands, and Rayner, Democrats—total, 15.

Those voting in the negative were: Aldrich, Burnham, Clark (Wyoming), Culom, Cummins, Curtis, Frye, Fulton, Gamble, Hale, Hemenway, Hopkins, Kittredge, Long, McCumber, Nelson, Perkins, Piles, Scott, Stephenson, Sutherland, Warren, and Warren, Republicans; Bacon, Daniel, Foster, Gary, McHenry, Milton, Overman, Simmons, and Teller, Democrats—total, 32.

Consumed Afternoon.

The bill providing for taking the thirtieth census was before the Senate all the afternoon, and was finally passed just before adjournment. Senator Long, of Kansas, was in charge of the bill. The principal interest centered in the civil service amendment.

William Dudley Foulke, of Richmond, Ind., the President's friend and a former Civil Service Commissioner, came to the Senate to labor for the civil service amendment and watch the progress of the fight on the floor.

As it passed, the bill was amended in many essentials from the form in which it came from the House and will therefore go to conference.

The Senate, for example, added an amendment authorizing the Director of the Census to acquire a site and erect a building for the accommodation of the bureau at a cost of $75,000.

Much discussion of local interest was held when this amendment was proposed by Senator Newlands. Some were in favor of erecting the new census bureau on the land to be acquired south of Pennsylvania avenue; others wanted the building to remain at its present location, while Senator Scott suggested that the two upper floors of the Senate office building be utilized.

Senator Nelson took occasion to remark that the proposed site for the new buildings in Pennsylvania avenue was on swampy ground, and added that he could see no reason for placing government buildings all in one section of the city. He favored the present site.

INAUGURAL BILL HELD UP.

District Committee Reports Favorably on the Measure.

After being favorably reported to the Senate, the Gallinger resolution authorizing the granting of permits to the District of Columbia committee was held up in the Senate yesterday by Senator Lodge.

The resolution, which has been speedily passed in Congress since 1885, was considered by the District Committee yesterday morning and was reported favorably upon, and given to Senator Scott for presentation. Messrs. Edward J. Stellwagen, Maj. Richard Sylvester, and Aldis B. Browne appeared before the committee and explained the details of the measure.

It is expected the bill will be called up at an early date and enacted in time to allow the committee in charge of the ceremonies to make the necessary arrangements for March 4.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to allow the Pension Building to be used for the inaugural ball, and provides that certain other permits be granted by various executive departments.

EARL GETS LICENSE TO WED

Lord Granard Calls at City Hall with Miss Mills.

His Full Name Is Bernard Arthur William Patrick Hastings Forbes.

Occupation Master of Horse.

New York, Jan. 8.—Bernard Arthur William Patrick Hastings Forbes appeared in the license bureau at the city hall today to get a marriage license. Chief Clerk Scully looked at the possessor of this long list of names in some surprise, only to learn a moment later that his visitor was the eighth earl of Granard, and that he wished to take out a license to marry Miss Beatrice Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills.

The earl was accompanied by Miss Mills, and the couple were escorted to the clerk's office by Francis K. Pendleton, corporation counsel. At the license bureau the earl gave his occupation as master of the horse to his majesty King Edward VII of England. The earl produced as soon as the license had been made out and handed it to Clerk Scully, who thanked his visitor and escorted him to the door of the office.

The marriage of Lord Granard and Miss Mills will take place at the residence of Miss Mills on January 14.

THREE SMALL FIRES.

About $600 Loss Resulted from the One in F Street.

Nearly $600 loss was caused in the printing establishment of Clarence E. Davis, 1006 F street northwest, shortly after 5 o'clock last night by a fire of unknown origin.

The blaze started between the ceiling of the basement and the first floor. Four engine companies, two truck companies and the hose tower responded, extinguishing the flames after a few minutes' work. The loss is covered by insurance. The building is owned by Dr. Henry Evans.

About fifteen minutes before the blaze in F street, a curtain in the house of Mr. W. Jones, 1008 Eleventh street northwest, was blown against a lighted gas jet, catching fire. The blaze was extinguished by about 25.

Fire was discovered early in the morning in a clothes closet, in the home of James J. Tobin, living in Eighteenth between Monroe and Newton streets, Brookland, D. C. Engine Company No. 17 responded and extinguished the blaze with a loss of about $10. The origin of the fire has not been learned.

MAY AFFECT PRINTING.

Amendment Allows Director of Census to Place $2,000,000 Contract.

S. N. D. North, Director of the Census, will have the power to award the contract for the printing of the thirtieth decennial census to private parties should he be of the opinion that the Public Printer cannot produce the work in a satisfactory manner.

This amendment added to the House bill by the committee of which Senator Long, of Kansas, is chairman, was passed by the Senate yesterday. Despite the opposition that had been manifested by certain members of Congress and officials of the Government Printing Office, the amendment was enacted as part of the census bill that became a law after three hours' debate.

It was asserted that the amendment put too much power in the hands of one individual. Senator Nelson voiced the opinion that the government printer was the best equipped plant and most fitted to handle the work.

PLEA FOR GOMPERTS IN SENATE.

St. Louis Typographical Union Prays for Legislation.

The first petition to reach Congress regarding the recent decision against Samuel Gomper, John Mitchell, and Frank Morrison, for contempt of court, was presented to the Senate yesterday by the Vice President.

The document was sent by the St. Louis Typographical Union, No. 8, and was signed by the officers of that body, praying for legislation to arrest the terms of imprisonment adjudged against the labor leaders by Justice Wright.

The petition declares that the sentence is both unjust and unlawful, and urges Congress to "prevent the Federal courts from invading the rights of citizens."

The matter was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

DATA IS GIVEN

The results of such employment. The President, however, offers gratuitously one of the results of secret investigation.

This is the revelation of the Tillman correspondence, which the President uses to "illustrate" certain statements made in his letter to Senator Hale. The letter to Senator Hale is as follows:

DATA OF LAND DEAL

TO BE READ IN SENATE

The letter of the President to Senator Hale, which is aimed at Senator Tillman, in connection with certain Western land deals, which will be read in the Senate to-day, is in part, as follows:

White House, Washington, January 5, 1909.

My Dear Senator Hale: I have requested the different departments of the government, not only those to whom you sent requests, but those to whom you did not, to give me all the information about the use of special attorneys, special agents, inspectors, etc., in their departments which will enable me to put before you all the facts which, as I understand it, your committee desire to have. I transmit these reports herewith. I call especial attention to the reports of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General.

Let me at the outset most earnestly express my cordial agreement with the view that it is not only right, but the duty of Congress to investigate the workings of the Secret Service or detective agents by which alone the government can effectively safeguard itself against wrongdoing, punish crime, and bring to justice criminals. I am well aware of the liability to abuse inherent in any effective detective system or secret service system; for the measure of the efficiency of the system is also the measure of the seriousness of the abuses of the system, if it is applied to wrong purposes or directed in an improper manner. It is eminently to the public interest that there should be vigilant inquiry into the working of this agency, both by the heads of the executive departments and by Congress.

System Indispensable.

It nevertheless remains true that this system is absolutely indispensable if the popular interest is to be adequately safeguarded and wrongdoers taught to fear the law. To show how indispensable detectives are when important work of a confidential character must be done, I refer you to the experience of the migration commission appointed by Congress and largely composed of Senators and Representatives, which has found it absolutely necessary to employ detectives in order to achieve the best results. In my communication of the 4th instant to the Lower House I have set forth at length the reasons why, in my judgment, it is eminently desirable that in addition to the special detectives or inspection service of each department, there should be in some one department, preferably the Department of Justice, a service which can be used in any department in order to achieve its ends. I have described. I would like to state here that very frequently accusations have been made to me privately by members of the two Houses to the effect that the Secret Service has been used as a "police of morals" or to shadow Senators, Congressmen, and other public officials. Hitherto the effort to discover the basis for such allegations has always been fruitless.

It is greatly to be regretted if any information could be furnished me tending to show any instance where this has been done in times past.

Certain of the special agents, inspectors, and the like, in the several departments have a highly specialized work to perform. In the Treasury Department the Secret Service is especially trained to deal with counterfeiters and the special agents with customs frauds. In the Post-Office Department the corps of inspectors is especially trained and particularly fitted to detect criminality or abuses or fraudulent use of the mails in connection with the postal service.

In the Interior Department the special agents of the Land Office are trained to inspect the Indian Bureau are trained in similar fashion to meet special needs. In addition, it is urgently necessary, as set forth in Mr. Root's accompanying report, that there shall be a central force of Secret Service men who can be detailed for work anywhere in the government service.

Unearthed Postal Frauds.

Of course, in the investigation of specific frauds we sometimes come across wholly unexpected phases of misconduct. The frauds in the postal department which were unearthed some six years ago, for instance, offer a case in point. My suspicions were first aroused by a report made as to the very extravagant and debauched manner of life of a certain postal employee, this report being made by an official of the Secret Service in connection with another transaction on which he was at work. So with cases of the abuse of the franking privilege.

The post-office never set upon its feet any package sent through the mails by a Senator or Congressman, but sometimes through the accidental breaking of such package the contents are exposed, and if they are of a character which makes their transmission by franking privilege illegal, steps are taken by the post-office authorities to collect the full postage. Some of these instances represent real abuses, but in other cases they are due to carelessness or ignorance, and very often doubtless are entirely unknown to the Congressmen themselves, and no good purpose would be served by any publicity in the matter.

But a case has just arisen of a different kind which it seems to me I should put before you as illustrating in striking fashion the way in which investigations begun by any of these various agents in the strict line of their duty may develop facts of high importance, which the investigators would not in the first instance have sought to discover, which when discovered ought not to be hidden or suppressed, but the development of which may tend to create an erroneous impression in the public mind. The question here being used for purposes not within the line of their lawful duty.

Mentions Senator Tillman.

On the 19th of February, 1908 (see Exhibit A), Senator Tillman called the attention of the Senate to a circular of a syndicate firm for the sale of lands in Oregon, particularly in Coos and Douglas counties, which had been granted to corporations by the government, the circular stating that the company in possession of the lands was bound to sell them for $2.50 an acre, or upon their refusal would be prosecuted by the government, and that "among those who have spoken for a part of this land, is Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, the leader of the Democratic party in the Senate, a man who usually gets what he goes after."

Sensor Tillman denied the statements of this circular and expressed a wish for an investigation, and upon his request the Post-Office Department, through its inspectors, made such an investigation. He stated in reference to this circular:

I have not bought any land anywhere in the West and I have never been in the West since I left the West. I am naturally well known in the West. I simply want the people of the country to be put on notice that this circular at Portland is a mere advertisement for landowners to locate others into it.
